Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 25 and 27-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The scope of the claims is indefinite. In claim 25, a “tensioning apparatus for use with a door system” is recited, clearly indicating at that point that only the tensioning apparatus is being claimed and the door system is not being positively recited. However, later in the claim, the tool adapter is said to be “operationally interrelated” to the door system, which constitutes a positive recitation of the tool adapter and the door system combination. Consequently, it is unclear as to whether the tensioning apparatus or the tensioning apparatus and door system is being claimed. For examination purposes, it is assumed that only the tensioning apparatus is claimed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 25 and 27-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Dorma.

Only the tensioning tool is being recited. See housing 47, any external portion of which may be considered a stop, including the angled portions to the right side in Fig. 3.

Art Unit: 3634

The internal portion of the housing contains the gearing, motor, etc. as seen in Fig. 5, which together meets the limitation of "coupler". See also "boss" 104.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant's remarks do not take into account the fact that only the subcombination of the tensioning apparatus is being examined. Consequently, the rejection is repeated along with all prior defenses thereof.
